

WANTS LAW TO SAVE CHILDREN

Bill Prepared Authorizing Removal From Vicious Surroundings.

CAPT. WOOD LOBBIES FOR IT

SALVATION ARMY MAN PUSHES NEEDED MEASURE.

A lobbyist, garbed in a blue uniform and wearing a red-ribboned cap, is due to make his appearance in Utah legislative halls this week. His name is William P. Wood, well known both by sight and reputation to Salt Lake residents as staff captain of the Salvation Army, in charge of the work being done by General Booth's cohorts in this city. Captain Wood will invade the legislative precincts with the purpose of making converts.

Converting the members to a lively sense of their many sins is not the mission which the enthusiastic salvationist has undertaken, however. As a practical worker he knows where there are more fruitful fields. What he will try to do is to bring the lawmakers to a realization of the necessity for legislation for reclaiming little children from vicious surroundings. A bill providing for the removal by force, if necessary, of innocent children from dissolute and immoral parents or guardians has been prepared by the Home Finding association, and it is that which Captain Wood is lobbying. A copy of the measure has been submitted to Mrs. Mary G. Coulter, chairman of the house judiciary committee, who will all probably introduce it in the house. Another copy has been given to Senator George M. Lawrence, chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate, for his examination. Senator Lawrence will not introduce the measure, as he has so many other bills already introduced for which he is working. The measure will be presented by some other member of the judiciary committee.

Tells of Frightful Conditions.

"In our work in the disreputable districts we often find little children being brought up by immoral women in the vilest surroundings," said Captain Wood yesterday. "There is no law on the statute books of Utah which empowers any one to take these children away from their shameless parents and vicious associates. In this respect Utah is an exception, as nearly every other state has provided for such cases. Just recently we endeavored to have a beautiful little girl, a sweet child taken away from its mother, who was the proprietress of a house of ill fame. The little one was being brought up among shocking scenes, from which its mother made no attempt to shield it. "The police authorities were unable to help in our endeavors to remove the child away from the frightful influences, so we went to the county attorney. He informed us there was no statute under which he could act. He did what he could, however, threatening and pleading, but without avail, as the woman seemed to realize her rights under the law. She still has the child in her possession."

"I have no doubt the legislature will remedy this defect in our laws. The Home Finding association is providing lovely homes for these little ones, and all that is needed is the right to reclaim them from the dens where their young lives are being ruined."

HEALTH OF THE CITY.

Many Cases of Scarlet Fever and Smallpox Reported.

The report of the board of health for the week ending Jan. 31 shows the removal of fifteen cases of scarlet fever, and five females. For the same period there were fifteen deaths reported, ten residents, five being males and five females. Six bodies were shipped away during the week and were brought here for burial. At the close of the last report there were twenty cases of scarlet fever in quarantine; fifteen new cases were reported during the week, and seven were discharged as cured, leaving twenty-seven cases in quarantine in nineteen premises. Nine cases of diphtheria were carried over from last week, four cases were discharged and no new cases having developed, left five warning signs on as many premises quarantined five cases. Eighteen new cases of smallpox developed during the week and one case was imported from Leadville, Colo. The latter case, which is the only one of the total number ever successfully vaccinated, shows a poor scar of vaccination performed in childhood. One case remained fatally and fifteen cases were recovered, leaving sixty-five cases in detention. Typhoid fever, measles and chicken-pox register one case each. Since the conclusion of this report one case of diphtheria was reported, Pearl Hills, age 3, North Seventh West, child of Fred Hills.

NOT DUE TO CLIMATE.

Catarrh Is Found Everywhere.

Catarrh is at home anywhere and everywhere. While more common in cold, changeable climates, it is by no means confined to them, but is prevalent in every state and territory in the Union. The common definition of catarrh is a chronic cold in the head, which, if long neglected, often destroys the sense of smell and hearing; but there are many other forms of the disease, even more obstinate and dangerous. Catarrh of the throat and bronchial tubes as well as catarrh of the stomach and liver are almost as common as nasal catarrh and generally more difficult to cure. Catarrh is undoubtedly a blood disease and can only be successfully eradicated by an internal treatment. Sprays, washes and powders are useless as far as reaching the real seat of the disease is concerned.

Dr. McVerney advises catarrh sufferers to use a new preparation, sold by druggists, called Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, because actual analysis has shown these tablets to contain certain antiseptic qualities of the highest value and being an internal remedy, pleasant to the taste, convenient and harmless, can be used as freely as required, as well for children as for adults.

An attorney and public speaker, who has been a catarrh sufferer for years, says: "Every fall I would catch a cold which would settle in my head and throat and hang on all winter long, and every winter it seemed to get a little worse. I was continually clearing my throat and my voice became affected to such an extent as to interfere with my public speaking."

"I tried troches and cheap cough cures and sometimes got relief, but only for a short time, until this winter when I learned of the new catarrh cure, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, through a newspaper advertisement. Two 50-cent boxes, which I bought at my druggist's, cleared my head and throat in fine shape, and to guard against a return of my old trouble I keep a box of the tablets on hand and whenever I catch a little cold I take a tablet or two and ward off any serious developments."

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets deserve to head the list as a household remedy, to check and break up coughs and colds, because unlike many other catarrh and cough cures, these tablets contain no opiate, cocaine or any injurious drug.

GUARDIANS NEW ARMORY

Present Building Unsuitable For the Purpose.

NOTHING BUT AN OLD SHACK

AFFORDS NO PROTECTION TO GUNS AND EQUIPMENT.

The members and officers of the national guard in this city want a new armory, one that will be a credit to the state's military organization, and will give adequate shelter and protection to the equipment of the guard. The present armory, according to the officers and men, is entirely unsuitable for the purposes for which it is being used, and is getting in such a shape that interest is being lost by many of the members in the guard work. It is asserted that the building is nothing more than a shack, that does not protect the equipment from the ravages of the weather and offers almost no protection against loss of equipment through theft. The insurance companies refuse to carry insurance on the valuable contents of the building, and as this is government property, and the officers are held responsible for it, a determined protest is being made against further occupancy of the place.

Want Suitable Headquarters.

The spirit of discontent with the old building exists throughout the guard, and the members of the latter feel that the state owes it to itself to furnish a suitable house for the property of its citizen soldiers. The matter has been a topic of constant conversation, and every guardman is anxious to see the legislature take some action on the suggestions made in his message to that body by Governor Wells. Matters have gotten into such a state that the officers say: "Unless the state can give its guard a decent place to store its property in, the guard had better be abolished for interest will be lost in it and it will dwindle away."

Colonel Sam Park, in discussing the matter yesterday, said that the trouble caused the guard by the bad condition of the present armory was so great that protests were being made from every quarter. "We have in that building," said he, "more than $100,000 worth of property belonging to the government, and the building affords scarcely any protection for it. Such a state of affairs is very discouraging to a military organization."

Captains Are Responsible.

"For instance, each captain is under bonds and is held responsible for the equipment of his men. There are innumerable things that he must look after, and if anything is lost he must stand good for it. The building is in such a shape that looks on the outside offer no protection to the stores inside, and we are troubled constantly by having stuff stolen. "Then, too, the building is so rickety that the guns and other paraphernalia are not protected from the vicissitudes of the weather. It is impossible to keep dampness out of the barracks and, as a consequence, the guns rust every time they are put in the racks. "Then when the inspector general comes around to make an inspection he finds the guns in this condition and goes after the officers and guardmen for not keeping them in the proper condition. The men do the best they can and to have the inspector after them all the time about things over which they have no control, discourages them and causes a flagging of interest."

Officers Are Discouraged.

"I tell you there are not a few officers who would just as soon not be in the guard, but they feel that they owe it to the state to stay there and try to keep up the guard. With such conditions to battle against, though, you cannot expect to have young men flock to the guard for enlistment, and it is hard work to keep things going at the pace they should. "Then, besides all this, the building is considered so unsafe that the insurance companies will not carry insurance on the contents, and all that amount of government property is there without any protection against fire or other destruction. The partitions are so thin and unstable that when any indoor games are played or in drilling, any one knows against them, any joists a lot of plaster that falls off the wall and leaves the place in a very bad shape. No pictures or anything of that kind can be hung to beautify the appearance of the quarters, for the unstable walls will not support them. As a result, we have a barren place, unattractive and inadequate for the needs of the guard."

Duty of the State.

"Of course, the place is much better than the old one we had, and it is worth the rent that is being paid for it, but yet it is not such a place as the guard of Utah should occupy. The government is doing everything it can to furnish us with the best equipment free of cost, and the guardsmen think it is as little as the state can do to furnish a suitable place for the storing and protection of this equipment."

"With suitable and commodious quarters, interest, I think, would revive in the guard and it could be made what it should be. Money spent in this way would be a good investment, too, for should there be any trouble here it would cost the state many times as much as a good armory would to put down that trouble if they had to do it without the aid of the guard, or by the aid of a guard that was inexperienced in military work because of meager facilities for getting the training."

TANNER HAD JURISDICTION.

Writ of Certiorari Denied W. H. Cowan, Who Illegally Sold Liquor. A writ of certiorari was yesterday denied by Judge Morse in the case of the State vs. W. H. Cowan, charged with selling liquor without a license. Judge Tanner refused him a change of venue, and the application for the writ before Judge Morse was to compel the judge of the city court to grant the application, beyond which he found guilty, set up the plea that Judge Tanner had no jurisdiction in the matter. The application for the writ Judge Morse holds to the contrary.

Wants Maiden Name Restored.

Mrs. Amelia Barnes has petitioned Judge Hall to permit her to change her name to Mrs. Helen Branden Lynde. In April, 1889, she was divorced from her husband, and through an oversight on the part of her attorney, the court was not asked to restore her maiden name. "Since then she claims her husband has been bothering her because she still retains his name."

District Court Notes.

On motion of the plaintiff in the suit of the South Galena Mining company vs. John Tierman, the United States Mining company was substituted for the plaintiff, and the application for the writ of defendant, Judge Stewart then entered judgment in favor of the plaintiffs to the effect that it is claimed to the State lode, the area in controversy. M. C. Moon brought suit in the district court yesterday against more than twenty people, exclusive of the county, to quiet the title to several parcels of land in the city.

NO SWEEPING RAILWAY LAWS

San Is on Radical Enactment by 1903 Legislature.

HOYT SHERMAN TELLS WHY

NO NECESSITY FOR OBEYING CONSTITUTIONAL MANDATE.

No important railroad legislation will be enacted by the Utah legislature, in the opinion of Senator Hoyt Sherman, chairman of the upper house committee on railroads. While not attempting to speak for his colleagues, Senator Sherman is of the opinion that the sentiment among them is uncompromisingly adverse to the enactment of any legislation on the subject save that of a minor character. Several amendments to the railroad laws are under consideration, but none is of general or sweeping application.

In the state constitution is a clause making it mandatory upon the legislature to pass laws establishing maximum rates of transportation, correcting abuses, preventing discrimination and providing adequate facilities. Still the requirements of that provision have not been observed by any legislature, and Governor Wells has taken occasion in his biennial messages to call attention to that delinquency. That the constitution's mandate will remain unneeded by the present legislature is Senator Sherman's prediction.

Opposed to Lateral Reading.

"I hardly think that provision of the constitution should be so strictly construed as some think it ought to be," said Senator Sherman yesterday. "It seems to me it is there rather as a protection to the state than as a club to be used upon the heads of the railway systems. Should the railroads become unfair to the state or its citizens by exacting exorbitant rates, discriminating or abusing the privileges which have been granted them, the power vested in the legislature by the constitution could be used for their regulation."

"At this time, when new transcontinental lines are either projected or being constructed, it would be particularly inopportune to experiment with railroad legislation. The result might not only be oppressive to the new companies, but costly to the state, in that it might turn them away, retarding the development of our territory and resources. Just so long as the situation is favorable, it should not be tampered with. Making big blunders in dealing with a subject of this kind is easily possible, even where there are the best of intentions, and Utah cannot afford to take chances of mistakes at the present time."

Would Be Turned Down.

"Even should the house pass any sweeping railway legislation, which, I think, extremely improbable, the senate would, I believe, turn it down. The bill introduced by Representative Wilson undoubtedly will not be taken seriously in the house, but even if it should pass that body, which result I regard as impossible, it would be promptly squelched in the senate. Whatever special conditions may arise requiring a remedy may be reached by minor amendments, and some such may be enacted. There are several such bills pending before the railroad committee in the senate, and they will be considered on their merits. I have no doubt some of them will become laws."

Among the other measures which the railroads committee has before it is a memorial to congress asking that body to require the Southern Pacific railway to construct drawbridges along its projected line across Great Salt Lake. The measure was presented by Senator Barnes. According to the railway officials it is born of a misapprehension of the facts. The company, it is asserted, has no intention of cutting off the northern part of the lake from the southern part, but will provide waterways at frequent intervals, sufficient to meet the requirements of flow and of the scow navigation which is carried on upon the lake. A meeting of the senate railroads committee will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. Several railroad attorneys will attend, it is said, with the purpose of opposing three bills introduced by Senator Whitmore increasing the companies' liability for damage to stock and damage by fire.

TORTURING DISFIGURING

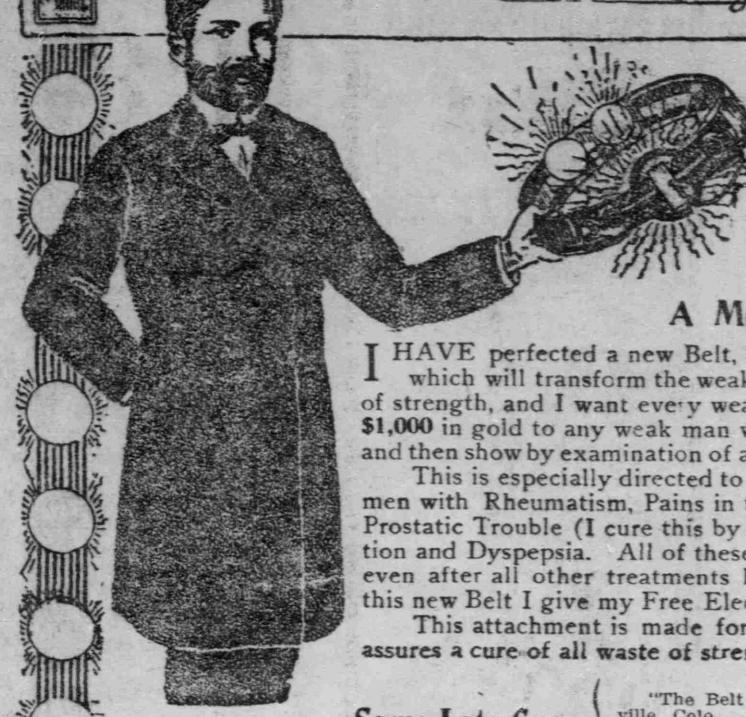

Skin, Scalp and Blood Humours

Speedily Cured by Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills

When the Best Physicians and All Else Fail.

The agonizing itching and burning of the skin, as in eczema; the frightful scaling, as in psoriasis; the loss of hair and crusting of the scalp, as in scalled head; the facial disfigurements, as in pimples and ringworm; the awful suffering of infants, and anxiety of worn-out parents, as in milk crust, letter and salt rheum, all demand a remedy of almost superhuman virtues to successfully cope with them. That Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills are such stands proven beyond all doubt. No statement is made regarding them that is not justified by the strongest evidence. The purity and sweetness, the power to afford immediate relief, the certainty of speedy and permanent cure, the absolute safety and great economy have made them the standard skin cures, blood purifiers and humors remedies of the civilized world. Bathe the affected parts with hot water and Cuticura Soap, to cleanse the surface of crusts and scales, and soften the thickened cuticle, dry, without hard rubbing, and apply Cuticura Ointment freely, to allay itching, irritation and inflammation, and soothe and heal, and, lastly, take Cuticura Resolvent Pills, to cool and cleanse the blood. This complete treatment, costing but one dollar, affords instant relief, permits rest and sleep in the severest forms of eczema and other itching, burning and scaly humors of the skin, scalp and blood, and points to a speedy, permanent and economical cure when all other remedies and the best physicians fail.
